DESCRIPTION

Located in Angresse, just minutes from the ocean beaches and the vibrant heart of Hossegor, this unique 20-hectare estate — including 3 hectares of lake — is a rare creation by renowned Landes architect Patrick Arotcharen for a celebrated contemporary artist. Seamlessly blending into a protected natural environment, the property offers a rare sense of harmony and serenity.

The main house, approximately 500 m², was designed as a tribute to light and space. Centered around a vast living area bathed in natural light, it opens generously to the outdoors through expansive glass doors, erasing the boundary between interior and landscape. Natural materials — wood, raw concrete, and stone — create a refined, contemporary, and welcoming atmosphere. The layout includes a beautiful kitchen, living room, spacious entrance hall, four bedrooms, three bathrooms, a basement, and a charming 80 m² independent “bergerie” (cottage), offering potential for additional living space (subject to current planning regulations).

Outdoors, the grounds unfold in a poetic rhythm of wild spaces and quiet clearings. The lake, a living mirror of the sky, changes with the seasons, bringing a timeless beauty to the landscape. Several wooden terraces have been created to enjoy the scenery and shifting light throughout the day.

More than a property, this is a home infused with meaning — a place of inspiration, creation, and quiet elegance.
